

AT THE CENTER OF THINGS

CENTER ON THE HILL ... THE PLACE FOR ACTIVE ADULTS

— SPRING 2018 —

As we physically shed the warm layers from the winter months and Mother Nature's floral majesty begins to appear out our windows, it's a perfect opportunity to remind us of the power of renewal and the endless possibilities around us. So I ask you this, what new activity or program might you participate in this spring to renew and grow yourself?

We have over 20 new programs this spring at the Center on the Hill and of course we have our popular weekly classes such as qigong, yoga, and watercolor to name a few. Below are highlights of some of our new programs/events this spring.

Diva Demands — Leigh Munro, a former principal artist with the New York City Opera, will share her experiences, and present an honest look at how it really is to pursue a career in the world of opera. (page 4).

Love Your Bones! — This workshop is for anyone concerned about maintaining healthy bones. Did you know that yoga can stimulate bone development and help deter the effects of osteopenia and osteoporosis? Come learn about accessible yoga postures that have been validated through research and that benefit bone health. (page 10).

How to Be an Advocate: Make Your Voice Heard on the Issues You Care Most About — This presentation will show how you can best advocate for the issues that are important to you whether it is volunteering your time with a larger advocacy organization, advocating for your own health care or contacting your local, state, and federal officials directly. (page 5).

Life After Loss: Bereavement and Beyond — This four-week, topic-driven bereavement group is designed to assist people in any stage of the grieving process. We will offer guided discussion and opportunities to share, process, reflect, and connect. (page 11).

Nutrition and Brain Health — As we age, maintaining brain health is critical to vitality and longevity. Nutrition plays a key role in lowering risk of dementia, Alzheimer's Disease and other neuro-degenerative diseases. (page 11).

Bring Your Family History Material to Life — If you have old photos, newspaper clippings, artifacts, sewing projects, and other family or genealogical material stashed in boxes, come to this class to form an inspired plan and get started. (page 6).

I wish each and every one of you reading this newsletter a happy and health spring season!

With gratitude,

Leslie

According to one estimate, only about one in a million singers is born with the instrument necessary to make the sounds required in opera, and only a very few of them can follow through on their gift. So, what does it take to pursue a career in one of the most competitive, demanding professions in the world today? What are the training and financial requirements? How many years of study, including college degrees, are involved? What are the pathways to getting hired? Is it a sustainable career choice? Despite the challenges, music schools are filled to capacity with gifted, young singers, hoping to realize their dreams. What are their chances of success?

Leigh Munro, a former principal artist with the New York City Opera, will share her experiences, and present an honest look at how it's done. She'll include the triumphs and challenges she faced as a young mother from central Pennsylvania, who, against all odds, was given the opportunity to realize her lifelong dream of singing opera in New York and around the world.

No singing experience is necessary, but participants should expect to engage the singing voice as well as the speaking voice.

Less than 6% of the artists in Modern Art sections are women while 85% of the nudes are female! Let's explore whose story is the history of art anyway? How could Renoir get away with saying "The woman artist is merely ridiculous!?" Come celebrate the female artists through the centuries... you may be surprised!

ART AS MEDITATION

*Monday, May 21
1:00pm – 3:00pm

This workshop is a lesson in learning to see, combined with a series of guided meditations. Learn to focus on a subject and observe things you've never noticed before. Discover how drawing can actually be a form of meditation, and how meditating can enhance your observational skills. Anyone interested in these two subjects is welcome. No previous experience in either subject is required. It is a totally relaxing and unique way to spend two hours.

Debra Kapnek has a Masters in Fine Arts and is a professional artist. She has been painting for over forty years and her work is sold to both private and public collections. ART GALLERY

APRIL – CHARLEEN STEVENS

Charleen Stevens returns to the Center on the Hill with an exhibit of new photographs. Charleen is self-taught in art and photography having acquired a degree in music from Hunter College University. She secured a job with Harriet Wild Fabric Arts in NYC because of her self-taught drawing ability and was in charge of colorings and repeats for upholstery and drapery. At the age of forty she began studying Chinese brush painting with Phoebe Shih. Painting mostly flowers, she was inspired to take a workshop in silk painting which led her to establish a scarf-painting business, producing her original creations. Besides flowers, birds, pets, and landscapes, Charleen excels in what she calls abstracts—details in nature that form compositions that are pleasing to the eye. Charleen has exhibited paintings at Cathedral Village, Mathers Mill, First Trust Bank, Norristown Art League, Woodmere Museum, and the Chevy Chase Club in Washington, DC. Charleen's photos are sold at The Hill Company, The Tailored Home, and The Tamarindo Restaurant in Flourtown. Charleen Stevens will host an art reception at the Center on the Hill, including light refreshments, on Thursday, April 5 from 5:00pm – 7:00pm.

JUNE – CLARA SOYOUN KIM

For her entire life, Clara Soyoun Kim has had two key passions: art and nature. These twin callings have always shaped her creative life. In Korea she majored in landscape architecture. However, this field did not yield the personal satisfaction she desired. She needed to practice something more expressive, so she came to America to study painting late in her life. She graduated from Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts last year. Upon relocating her studio from school to home, she dove into landscape painting. She painted the views she saw through the window of her living room, interpreting these vistas differently depending on the season, the weather, and the mood. Expanding her territory further, she began walking to the nearby train station and Wissahickon Park to paint. There she discovered the beauty and bright colors created by light, which has become her main focus.

UTILIZATION OF APPROPRIATE LIGHTING FOR PROMOTION OF HEALTH AND WELL-BEING IN OLDER ADULTS

Monday, April 30

11:00am – 12:00pm

Many older adults today are looking to age in place in their homes. The purpose of this session is to provide education on appropriate lighting techniques to increase independence for older adults living in the community. Because vision declines with age, it is important to provide proper lighting to continue to see at maximum potential. Research has indicated that appropriate lighting can increase safety, decrease risk of falls, and improve ease and independence with functional tasks. This interactive presentation will consist of examples of good and bad lighting techniques, explanation of how much lighting is needed for specific tasks, and when to use certain lighting techniques. Please join Occupational Therapy students from Salus University and Barbara Kroberger from Ralston My Way for this very important session on lighting and safety in the home.

David Dimmack, M.Ed., has been practicing holistic healing and mindfulness meditation for over twenty five years. He is one of the few westerners to be ordained as a lay dharma teacher by the venerable zen master Thich Nhat Hanh.
